- 2) LEARN about the Kalapuya Ilihi, the original inhabitants of the land where we live and work: <https://libraryguides.lanec.edu/kalapuya>. Consider adding a land acknowledgement, like the one below, to your email signature.

The University of Oregon is located on Kalapuya Ilihi, the traditional indigenous homeland of the Kalapuya people. Following treaties between 1851 and 1855, Kalapuya people were dispossessed of their indigenous homeland by the United States government and forcibly removed to the Coast Reservation in Western Oregon. Today, Kalapuya descendants are primarily citizens of the Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde and the Confederated Tribes of Siletz Indians, and they continue to make important contributions to their communities, to the UO, to Oregon, and to the world.

- 3) EXPLORE these tips from some of our longest-serving diversity committee members on where to learn about multicultural events on and around campus or online:
  - Subscribe to the DEI mailing list (scroll to the bottom at <https://inclusion.uoregon.edu/>)
  - Check out the UO events calendar, <calendar.uoregon.edu>, then filter by “Diversity and Multiculturalism”
- 4) DOWNLOAD a free digital copy of the next UO Common Reader, Braiding Sweetgrass (available to all UO staff, students, and faculty).
- 5) CHECK OUT some of the resources we’ve collected for (re) connecting with people and place: <https://vpfa.uoregon.edu/everyday-inclusion-2021#Resources>
